A Word to Farmers.

It appears that many of our farmers are not disposed to care in garnering their crops for this year—why, we cannot tell; but we hear reports almost daily of those who do not think it worth while to exercise any carefulness in this respect, and in several instances we are told that respectable crops will be left in the fields. This is not as it should be. No matter howsoever little may answer the requirements of the farmers themselves, there never yet has been a season in Oregon when the demand would equal that of the coming winter. In many cases the farms hitherto productive have been this year uncultivated, the owners having been lured to the mountains to dig for gold, instead of remaining at home to reap a harvest of golden grain. Our farm productions this year, for the reason above stated, will not equal the general expectation, while the immense immigration—estimated by some gentlemen already arrived at as high as two millions of persons, besides almost countless droves of stock—from the East will, in part at least, come to find living in the fertile valleys of Oregon, and expect to purchase enough for their support during the winter. Instead of leaving entire crops ungathered, if our farmers know what is for their best interests, or can be made in time to realize that the promptings of humanity require it, they will have their crops gleaned closer than the grain fields of Boaz after Ruth had filled her baskets. We must not let any of our new comers suffer, if we are wise in time, we can supply all, without importing any breadstuffs or hay. Our markets will be good this year for every description of farm products, and nothing which has been grown should be lost, left in the ground to rot, or thrown away.

Whither are we Tending.

[illegible] OREGONIAN:

[illegible] must be the end of the war? On the solution of this question depends the fate, for weal or woe, of rebels and Union men, both, as parties and individuals. If the Union men triumph, the rebels [illegible] such as the Government may pardon [illegible] reduced to the alternative of submission to [illegible] or escape from the country.

On the other hand the Southern press and leaders [illegible] that the war will not stop until the North [illegible] pay the war debt of the South. But suppose the rebels cripple the Government, and by fraternizing with their sympathizers in the North, [illegible] under Confederate rule, the Union men then [illegible] the war debt of both parties to pay [illegible] from the magnanimity of [illegible] aristocracy which is the motive [illegible] rebellion. That there is no possibility [illegible] being brought under Confederate rule [illegible] a safe presumption to act upon. [illegible] may prove our ruin. It is safe at [illegible] into account the possibility of circum[illegible] to bring the compromise element of the North into an active alliance with the South, and open hostility to the Government. Then Union under Confederate rule might be the result. And is not this what compromise or peace democrats [illegible] claiming to be Union men? M.

Our correspondent "M" takes a very candid view of the question, and we gladly publish the interrogations. The pressure in the North of some half a million "American knights," as reported under the leadership of the traitor Vallandigham and rebel Gen. Price, should certainly induce the hitherto dissentient Union elements to harmonize in order to make headway against a common enemy. If the secessionists of the North are permitted, in addition to secretly forming and equipping armies, to keep the members of the Union party at variance among themselves, the conquest of the Union will be an easy matter. The only way to defeat the enemies of our Government is to frown upon every disloyal utterance, support the Administration, contribute to swell and support our armies in the field, and do everything as individuals that can be done to preserve our country. Our cause is just and we shall conquer.

Death of John H. Scranton.—This noted man, who was taken to the Stockton Insane Asylum some six months ago, died a short time since, at Stockton. He was well known in Oregon and Washington Territory, having for a long time carried the U. S. Mail under contract with the Government. Poor John. He had his faults, but who has not? Few men are oftener called upon for generous deeds than he, and very few ever responded with more alacrity. Peace to his ashes.

Murder at Dungeness, W. T.—A man named Tucker was shot by some person unknown, about ten days since, at Dungeness, W. T., while mowing in a field. The ball went through his body, and lodged in the shirt he wore. Steps are being taken to ferret out the perpetrator of the deed.

Army Chaplain.—Rev. J. O. Raynor has been appointed chaplain at Fort Steilacoom, W. T., and will repair to the Sound this morning for the purpose of entering upon his duty. The appointment is a good one, and we congratulate our military friends there upon the acquisition of an efficient chaplain and loyal gentleman.

The Subject of Postal Reforms—Important Changes.—Of the many subjects of special interest commended from time to time to the attention of the American people in the way of administrative reforms and improvements, nothing has, perhaps, marked the progress of the age more plainly than the great advancement made in postal matters. The new "money order" system, although long in use abroad, is just about to be brought into use here as a most beneficial improvement on the old method of transmitting small sums of money over a wide extent of country, whilst in the other changes contemplated by Congress at the suggestion of the Postmaster General the enlightened friends of the Government will see that our progress is endeavouring in the attempt to keep in the front rank of an enlightened advancement.

Amongst these changes, however, is one which in itself eminently a reform, seems to have produced not a little alarm amongst the many postmasters relied upon for an enlightened co-operation in carrying on the Department, and this expressed fear is on the score of a possible curtailment of their rates of compensation. Nothing is further from such a result, as will be learned by a brief explanation of the matter in question. As the case stands at present fifty thousand folios of transcript are sent to Washington each quarter, from but five postoffices to enable the Auditor to keep the office accounts correctly. The reform in question proposes to do away with all this—to so simplify the method of doing business, that whilst all parties are saved immense labor and perplexity, the compensation of the Postmaster remains the cause. But perhaps the best explanation of what is contemplated in the direction indicated can be had from a letter addressed by the Postmaster General himself to the Chairman of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads of the House of Representatives. We give an extract:

'The first seven sections refer to the mode of compensating Postmasters, a subject which has heretofore claimed the attention of Congress, and one which I consider of the first importance to this Department. The following are among the more prominent reasons which present themselves to my mind in favor of fixed salaries instead of commissions for Postmasters:

'Under the existing law, minute accounts are kept of the postage on all mailable matter sent and received, paid as well as unpaid, involving the necessity of employing many clerks in postoffices for this particular purpose, and also in the office of the Auditor of the Treasury for the Postoffice Department, where the accounts of Postmasters are examined.'

"Thus, from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Chicago—only five postoffices—fifty thousand folios of transcript are sent to the Auditor each quarter, the originals being kept in these offices. The whole bulk of accounts from all the post offices can be reckoned by tons, and they are mainly kept for the purpose of arriving at the allowances to Postmasters which are estimated on the amount of postage collected. For any other purpose the accounts of mails sent and received are practically useless. The great mass of mail matter is prepaid by postage stamps, which are charged to Postmasters, and for which they are held accountable. In this way the revenues of the Department are sufficiently protected. If, then, the compensation of Postmasters be fixed, as proposed by the bill in question, no accounts will be required of mail matter prepaid by stamps, and the work in all the post offices will be expedited, with a great saving of labor and expense. The accounting in the Auditor's office of this Department will be much simplified, and there will be no difficulty in holding Postmasters to strict responsibility each quarter; whereas, now, in the ordinary course of business, the accounts of a Postmaster for a given quarter cannot be adjusted until after the end of the next quarter."

'There will also be a considerable saving in the items of blanks for post offices. The estimated cost of paper and printing next year is nearly one hundred thousand dollars, while the proposed change in the form of accounts will require less than one half of that expenditure."

'The present law limits the commissions of Postmasters to two thousand dollars per annum and also forbids allowances from other sources beyond that amount, so that, in fact, the Postmasters of all the principal offices already have fixed salaries, (in no case exceeding four thousand dollars per annum) though they can only be paid after presenting voluminous accounts on each and every letter mailed, and of numerous rates of commissions, differing according to the character of the mail matter, and also according to amount, there being no less than ten rates. Other changes and credits in an account current number twenty five, making in all thirty five heads of calculation, whereas, by the proposed new law, all accounts will be reduced to the simplest forms."

"The rule for fixing salaries is such as to ensure ample justice to all offices and the provision for revising the classification must have the effect to stimulate Postmasters in performing their duties, lest they should suffer a reduction of salary for a diminished business, whilst they have the assurance of a proper addition for an enlarged business.'

"The reasons for special legislation in the case of the Postoffice at New York are obvious. Its net revenues to the Department are now at the rate of nearly one million of dollars per annum—one hundred per cent. above every other office. The business connection with the foreign mails alone entitle that office to a separate classification, while its other interests and responsibilities are equally commanding, and entitle it to a corresponding distinction in respect to emolument."

These are interesting facts bearing upon the needed and contemplated reform—facts in which the people are vitally interested—because the more simple the machinery of government can be made in any Department the nearer it approaches that standard which, since the foundation of republican institutions in this country, has been the desideratum sought.

To recur briefly. The contemplated reform proposes to divide the compensation of Postmasters into five classes, the first to receive not more than four and not less than three thousand dollars, and so on down to the fifth, which from the business done affords less than one hundred dollars. By increase of business an office may be elevated to a higher class, thus presenting a stimulant to each officer to do his duty in every respect. The postoffice incumbents should hail this reform as one which, whilst it does not curtail their salaries at all, relieves them of the most cumbersome and perplexing part of their labors and responsibilities, and the people at large should hail it as one which, less costly, ensures more promptitude and leisure for due service on the part of public functionaries. It is only within the past few years that the most striking and needful improvements in a branch of the public service so necessary to the welfare and comfort of society have been made, and, after what has already been accomplished in this direction, we are prepared to welcome with our best wishes whatever may make it still more perfect in its capacity to benefit society and the world at large.

Progress in England.—England shares the general progress of the world. The principles of free government and liberal institutions are there as well as on this side of the Atlantic, rapidly developing. A reform bill has failed, but only by a small majority. Mr. Gladstone has declared himself in favor of manhood suffrage, in other words, that every man in England who is not a felon or an alien shall have the privilege of voting. This places Mr. Gladstone, who has always been conservative and timid in reforms, by the side of Bright and Cobden and the radicals may well rejoice at his accession, for it assures them of a speedy victory. England's manhood is now in battle with England's aristocracy, and we wish the cause God speed.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

Dates to July 14.

New York, July 13.—The [illegible] arrived to-night from Hilton Head [illegible] the 10th [illegible] and Jessie [illegible] previous [illegible] made runner and sent her to B[illegible]

Washington, July 13.—Some [illegible] constantly [illegible] until yesterday evening, when the rebel sharpshooters being annoying were dislodged [illegible] from the front of [illegible] This was [illegible] the rebel [illegible] having at the house of F. P. Blair [illegible] Silver Spring [illegible] the field [illegible] the rebels disappeared during the night from the front of the fortifications.

San Jose, July 13—10 a. m.—A party [illegible] the Sheriff and [illegible] of [illegible] county [illegible] Almaden [illegible] one mile and a half from town [illegible] killed Deputy Sheriff Adams [illegible] were concealed [illegible] took the [illegible] rushed [illegible] firing at the Sheriff's party, hitting Adams in the breast. His watch stopped the [illegible] providentially saved him from [illegible] glanced [illegible] inflicting [illegible] Creek [illegible] Another robber named Glasby was captured. [illegible] other [illegible] wounded [illegible] by [illegible] three were of the same party who robbed the stage at Placerville and robbed the stage and express near that place. [illegible] the reason [illegible] money to go South and fight for the Southern Confederacy. It is thought they were intending to rob a party who were supposed to be going to Almaden to-morrow to pay off the hands, it being regular pay day.

Virginia City, July 13.—At 10 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the upper story of M. Goldman & Co's Furniture Warehouse. The fire was [illegible] extinguished. Loss about 30,000. The insurance was 65,000. Block & Co's Dry Goods Store was damaged by smoke and water. The loss was about 10,000. It was partly insured.

Maximilian's Welcome.—While the French journals [illegible] overflowing with [illegible] of the enthusiasm with which the Mexicans received their new Emperor [illegible] displays of fire works, etc. [illegible] through independent sources. The late advices from Vera Cruz report that mysterious posters have been [illegible] upon the walls of Mexico threatening [illegible] Maximilian and the French. They further state that a conspiracy has recently been discovered in Guadalajara against the invaders, the suppression of which required the summary execution of three citizens. We have no doubt of the truth of these reports, and the summary execution of citizens will continue to be a necessity so long as the Austrian shall remain on Mexican soil. Unfortunate, disorganized, anarchical as they have been, the Mexicans have never shown themselves deficient in the spirit which spurns a foreign yoke.—Alta Cal.

Secessionists South.—The San Francisco Call says:

At a certain watering place to the south of us, recently, there were some one hundred persons, and among the whole number there were but two Union men who dared speak their sentiments. One left and returned to the city. The other was a South Carolinian, who at the commencement of the rebellion in company with four others, left to escape from the nest of treason. In Texas his companions with himself were arrested; he escaped, and the other four were hung, for being, like himself, Unionists. Since our friend left Santa Barbara this true South Carolina patriot has been massacred, undoubtedly on account of his Union sentiments.

The Call directs the attention of General McDowell to this state of things.

Beecher for Lincoln.—We have met no more comprehensive and masterly summing up of the reasons that should lead a loyal man to support Mr. Lincoln for re-election than those given by Henry Ward Beecher.

In consideration of the present exigency, in view of Mr. Lincoln's past Administration, the wisdom he has shown, the moral purity of the man, the confidence which the people put in him, the langer there would be, if he were set aside, of having it regarded as a popular rebuke of his policy, and the confidence that I feel that, though long in learning he has learned to govern, I am full and strong in my convictions that he should be our next President.

Captain Poole.—The Grand Jury of Solano county have indicted Captain C. E. Poole, of the Yosemite, and also the pilot of the same steamer for an assault with intent to commit murder—the grounds for the indictment being the facts of the recent collision between the Yosemite and the Washoe. A dispatch to the Bee, dated San Francisco, July 9, at 4.30 p. m., says:

The man injured by the collision of the Yosemite and Washoe is dead. Captain Poole has just been arrested on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the above.

Greeley on the Cleveland Convention.—The Tribune of June 2d says:

That which is distinctively known as the Albany call for the Cleveland convention appears in our columns to-day, with some new and weighty names appended. Regarding this convention simply as advisory and as claiming for its acts no other force than such as their intrinsic character shall command, we have looked with favor on its assembling though we purpose in no manner to be included by its action. In the end all unconditional Unionists must unite in the support of one ticket and we purpose to do nothing calculated to preclude that consummation. For the present the widest and freest expression of preference should be encouraged to the end that all, having been fairly and freely heard, shall be prepared and made willing to merge their minor differences in devotion to the Union cause.

Greeley will repudiate the nomination of Fremont and Cochrane and support Lincoln most ardently.

Josiah Quincy, whose death was announced on the 7th, was ninety two years of age—exceeding that of our nation. He has been in political life over seventy five years, having been a member of Congress, member of the the State Legislature, Mayor of his native city (Boston), Judge, President of the Harvard University for sixteen years, and author of a dozen books including the "History of Boston," a "History of Harvard University," and "A Life of John Quincy Adams."

It is a remarkable and most interesting fact, that the very first use to which the discovery of printing was applied, was the production of the Bible. What a prostitution of types when they were converted to printing Copperhead papers?

H. M. S. Frigate Tribune, which for some time laid on the Sand Heads of Fraser river, has arrived at Esquimalt in a seriously damaged condition. A survey was to be held immediately, under supervision of the Admiral.

A cargo of 10,000 shovels, and a large number of siege guns, was shipped from Washington the second week in June consigned to Gen. Grant.

Re-Opening of the Dennison House.—This very popular establishment recently purchased by S. N. Arrigoni, Esq., of the Pioneer Hotel, re opens this afternoon at 5 o'clock. We took a walk over the premises last evening, and were struck with the alterations and improvements they have undergone since the property changed hands. Most of the lower portion has been changed in its arrangement, affording more room and the whole much more convenient and ornamental. Painters and paper hangers have been busy there for some time since, and the place now looks good as new. The dining room is the most elegant north of San Francisco, though by no means gaudy. One mirror, at the end of this room cost $550. The Dennison will maintain the character of a first class Hotel, and to-morrow the prices at the Pioneer will be reduced somewhat, so that the proprietor will be able to accommodate all his many friends, at prices in accordance with their means. Mr. Arrigoni is a popular host, and assisted by our friend Whitehouse, will succeed in keeping two hotels.

The Melon Season.—Annually, about this time in the year water melons appear in our market, and without regard to price they have been rapidly consumed, but this season prices are so high that melons are not sought with great avidity. This is not only the case in Portland but in San Francisco precisely the same state of affairs is said to exist, and the Flag philosophises as follows on the subject, which is all very true: A melon large enough to gratify the demands of a moderately sized family costs one dollar and fifty cents, and is consumed in about 15 minutes with the probability of importing more cramps than nutrition to the stomach. Now one dollar and fifty cents approximates closely to the full amount of a laboring man's daily wages—it would buy two pairs of shoes for the baby, a new dress for little Mary, a summer [illegible] Susan and a pair of gloves for mamma. No, we shall not buy any water melons just yet, we will wait a little longer.

Coroner's Inquest.—On Saturday last a coroner's jury was summoned in this city, and proceeded to Hayden's Island, in company with Justice Geo. B. Gray, in a small sloop procured for the purpose of making the trip, when an inquest was held over the remains of a man found the day previous, by Capt. Kerns of the steamer [illegible]. The man is described as [illegible] about [illegible] years of age, five feet [illegible] inches high, wore a sandy moustache [illegible] appears on the right arm [illegible] the profile of a Mermaid. On the [illegible] of a shirt, had been marked [illegible] The clothing [illegible] of dark colored pants, new [illegible] belt with knife sheath and silver plated buckle, no shirt. The body was buried, the jury giving a verdict of unknown when they returned to the city.

Liberty.—Liberty is a god given right when applied [illegible] speech, thought, and [illegible] misappropriation of liberty, is apt [illegible] which is unrestrained [illegible] what is called the L[illegible] place of resort for our [illegible] was yesterday the scene of [illegible] confusion, owing to the presence of several persons who [illegible] lager with [illegible] The proprie[illegible] the name of [illegible] Liberty [illegible] exercise the rights of [illegible] and [illegible] showed [illegible] so quick that he [illegible] operation for [illegible] of a host.

Do[illegible]—We applied for the report [illegible] day for the purpose [illegible] the names [illegible] own to us [illegible] farther [illegible] known by [illegible] The case was [illegible] our quite [illegible] the credit [illegible] a disregard [illegible] who should [illegible] We may [illegible] manded and [illegible]

Po[illegible] under regulations [illegible] complete and office [illegible] simply because they lack [illegible] to give them power. The [illegible] appointments of the City [illegible] a very reasonable [illegible] safety during the night [illegible] body can be as [illegible] preventing outrages, breaches [illegible] the cause for interference [illegible] We notice the [illegible] was conferred [illegible] private on Saturday by Marshal Hoy.

Kite Flying.—For several days past the winds have been quite favorable for kite flying, and yesterday evening the Chinese residents of Portland were amusing themselves at the art, in a manner which shows that John is an adept in the profession. In some sections of the country they have kite flying with variations, with musical machine or a harp, with less than a thousand strings, which is not only interesting but attractive.

Stopping the Leaks.—The San Francisco papers say "the old steamer Sierra Nevada is not so trim and stout a craft now as she has been. Her copper has been torn off for some distance along her sides, and exhibit ragged ends. She was partially careened at her dock, and workmen are otherwise repairing her, in order to get her safely up to Mare Island where she will be put in the dry dock, and have her bottom thoroughly overhauled, before returning to Portland.

Discovery of Coal.—We have understood for some weeks past, that bituminous coal had been discovered near Oak Point, in Washington Territory, and the matter begins now to assume some importance. A party was fitted out in this city on Saturday, for the purpose of prospecting the vein, and in the course of a few days we will have something reliable on the subject.

The Sanitary Rooster.—The Sanitary Rooster "still liveth," and is up for any kind of game even to a raffle, and will accordingly be chanced at the Pioneer Hotel this evening, where all desirous of assisting the Sanitary cause can do so, and have a little sport in the bargain. The rooster is entered for raffle by Theodore and Henry Mansfield.

Proposals Wanted.—Advertisement appears in another column for proposals for supplying several thousand cords of wood, on the Columbia river bank between the Cascades and Dalles, besides quantities in Portland daily. Proposals will be received until the 10th proximo.

An Actual Fact.—"What's the use of saying anything about paying three bits a week for a daily newspaper, when a man is charged fifty cents for a bit of tobacco like that?" said a laborer to his friend on Saturday, holding up a diminutive plug which he had just purchased.

Sale of Property.—A piece of very valuable property, situated in Clackamas county, will be sold at the Court House, in this city, to day. It is a rare chance for investment. Advertisement will be found in another column.

Commercial.—The bark Industry, Capt. Corno, crossed Columbia bar, on the passage from San Francisco to Portland, on Friday evening. The bark Jane A. Falkinburg would sail for San Francisco with a cargo of lumber, on Saturday last.

Thanks.—Rev. Mr. Selwood placed upon our table on Saturday last a handsome gift of delicious, ripe gooseberries, for which he has our thanks.

More Bark.—The steamer John H. Couch had in tow, on her arrival Saturday night, another barge load of hemlock bark for our tanneries.

School Notice.—The SCHOOL BETH ISRAEL will re-open in regular session on the 1st of August, 1864.

LIBERTY.—Liberty is a god given right, when applied to certain things, such as speech, thought, and action but a misappropriation of liberty, is apt to result in licentiousness which is unrestrained liberty We have in our city what is called the Liberty Brewery a favorite place of resort for our Teutonic citizens which place was yesterday the scene of much confusion, owing to the presence of several persons who tried to reconcile lager with something stronger, taken elsewhere The proprietors of the establishment thinking that the name of their brewery meant liberty but not licentiousness were compelled to exercise the rights of hosts, and quelled the storm brewed rioters so quick that the victims took the operation for rites of a host.

DOMESTIC TROUBLES.—We applied for the report of the Recorder's Court, on Saturday, for the purpose of obtaining an "item," but when the names and the nature of the case were made known to us we shrank from the task of publishing it any farther to the world, and the parties will only be known by reference to the records of the Court The case was one of domestic troubles which alas, occur quite too frequently in the annals of Oregon, for the credit of the community and shows too great a disregard for the solemn pledge which united those who should live in peace and happiness all their days We may state that the parties on Saturday were reprimanded and the case discharged

POLICE REGULATIONS.—The police, under regulations of this city, are not the most complete and efficient municipal body on the coast, simply because they lack the proper legislation to give them power The private watchman system, and appointments of the City Marshal combined, give us a very reasonable amount of confidence for safety during the night time and in the day time every body can be as active as they please in preventing outrages, breaches of the peace etc, but the cause for interference is very rare of late We notice the "star" was conferred upon another "private" on Saturday by Marshal Hoyt

KITE FLYING.—For several days past the winds have been quite favorable for kite flying, and yesterday evening the Chinese residents of Portland were amusing themselves at the art, in a manner which shows that John is an adept in the profession In some sections of the coast they have kite flying with variations, with musical attachments a harp with less than a thousand strings, which is not only interesting but attractive

Before leaving for Kootenai I cannot refrain from expressing my surprise at the growth and prosperity of this most fertile of the pleasant valleys [illegible] But [illegible] very brick [illegible] of railroad [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] From [illegible] full [illegible] packed [illegible] the mines The U S Mail [illegible] East via Salt Lake, leaves here three times each week

The celebration of the Fourth was a decided success A patriotic oration was delivered by Rev P B Chamberlain One of the features of the day was the parade of the Firemen Washington Company No 1 A magnificent silver trumpet was presented to them by H Parker Esq on behalf of their fellow citizens when Mr P addressed them as follows

"On this memorable day a day which all true lovers of their country hail with much joy I take great pleasure in presenting a token of the appreciation from your fellow citizens for the service that you have [illegible] rendered in protecting their property But for your noble deeds only a short time since our town would have been laid in ashes Go on then with renewed life in your laudable enterprise and your works shall not be forgotten [illegible] trust [illegible] trumpet from us and that Washington No 1 will continue to give a good account of itself"

The trumpet and address were received by the company with three hearty cheers It is said by many that but for the almost superhuman exertions of the gallant firemen our city would have been destroyed a few weeks ago

It is reported that a Union League exists in this neighborhood and a thorough Union paper is strongly talked of There is much less cheering for Jeff Davis here than formerly I notice a great many copies of the OREGONIAN in circulation here more indeed than all other papers together So soon as I can hear from some friend I am off for the mines

A Night Adventure at Sea.

(Concluded.)

The men did as they were ordered, but were perfectly convinced that the sounds they had heard were not occasioned by any such agencies as their commander had mentioned. The light, strange as it was, certainly might have proceeded from a passing ship, although, in that case, it was odd they could not see it. Each of the noises separately also might be thus accounted for, perhaps, but the whole occurring together and proceeding from one quarter, was to them inexplicable.

They had been asleep some hours, and day was about to break. The breeze had slightly freshened, but the ship, after having picked up the boats, had been hove to, and consequently had remained nearly stationary during the night, the carcass of the whale having been placed alongside, secured by tackles, preparatory to stripping the blubber, or "blanket piece," as it is technically called. Some of this had already been taken off, hoisted on deck, cut up and placed in the huge coppers, used in the sperm whale fishery for boiling (or "trying out," as it is termed) the oil—these coppers being imbedded in brick work, on the upper or open deck. The fires beneath them being laid ready for lighting, the mate was busy with his preparations when the Captain, who had been in bed, turned out and came on deck.

"Do you know," said he, "that I really think that there was no mistake in what the hands said? There's something out of the way going on, or afloat near us. My cabin window was open—the head of my bunk is close to it—and as I lay there I heard something—I can't make out what? Did you not hear anything?"

"No, we've been busy knocking about the decks. What was it like?"

"Well, at first it was like what the men said—deep groaning, moaning and rumbling kind of noises, a good distance off apparently. Then I heard a scream, then some one laughing—a rum sort of laugh it was too. I should have thought myself dreaming, only for what the men had said."

"How long since was this?" I asked the mate.

"Within this last quarter of an hour. But is everything ready for trying out, Mr Smart?" And the Captain examined the preparations made. "Call the watch as soon as it is light enough, and set all hands to work. The coppers are charged, so you may as well light the fires, and then pass the word along for silence fore and aft. I want to listen, and find out what those noises mean."

He went and stood by the taffrail, while the men on deck, ceasing their work, went to the side, or mounted the rigging.

For a short time they remained thus, looking and listening, when the Captain, hearing again the deep moaning he had described, raised the speaking trumpet he held and hailed. As the hoarse sound died away a startling reply was given. A burst of strange, harsh laughter came ringing across the water, gradually changing into a wild cry, which rose upon the night air, sounding inexpressibly sad and mournful. At that moment, as the seamen, thrilled and awe struck, listened, the fires which had been lit beneath the coppers and which had been fed with pieces of refuse blubber, began to burn up brightly, the flames presently shooting up half way to the tops, and casting a broad red glare over the surrounding waters. And, as if this flame had been a spell to conjure up the demons of the deep from the thick darkness beyond the verge of the circle of light issued a succession of sounds of the most extraordinary character. Yells and howls, shrill screams and roars—now commingled, now separate—at times dying away and again, as the flames shot up fiercely, rising in hideous chorus—assailed the ears of the astounded whalers, while at intervals, mingled with the uproar, was what seemed to some on board, to be the sound, indistinctly heard, of human voices. This continued until the vessel had passed on her way some distance, when the noises became more and more faint, and finally died away.

Before the fires had been lit the ship had been put before the wind in order that the smoke and flame might pass forward, and not endanger the rigging or incommode the men at their labor. Some of the latter, alarmed at the sounds, would willingly have had her continue her course and leave the vicinity, but the Yankee skipper was not superstitious, and, being determined to ascertain their cause, he ordered the fires to be put out (so that the vessel might sail against the wind) and returned. While the lookouts aloft were trying to catch sight of any vessel or other object in the neighborhood, the sounds again reached them, and, steering in their direction, the ship was hove to and a boat lowered, but the men hung back when the Captain ordered a crew in, and wished to wait for daylight.

"Why, what are you afraid of, men? Do you think there are evil spirits cruising?"

He paused in surprise, and all hands uttered a cry. A strange phenomenon was presented to their view, a pale blue phosphorescent light suddenly gleamed out of the darkness, and showed them a wreck dismasted and drifted. Through the upper ports and breaches in the bulwarks, broken by the waves, the unearthly-looking radiance shone, glimmering and flickering on the stump of the mainmast, the only fragment of a spar left standing. Its bows were toward them, and from their own mastheads they could at times, when it pitched and rolled, see down on to its deck. Close to the after hatchway burned a blue tremulous flame, sometimes shooting up vividly, at others sinking until nearly extinguished, by the light of which all on deck was rendered visible. All hands looked eagerly for signs of a crew, but nothing in the shape of a man was to be seen. The deck was cleared, the long boat and spare gone, there was nothing to conceal them from view, had any men been on board.

But though nothing in the guise of mortal man was visible, other objects presented themselves to the view of the awe-struck sailors. Gaunt and weird looking shapes of hideous animals were plainly seen flitting to and fro in the ghastly light of that unnatural illumination of a lonely wreck at sea.

"I can tell you, sir," said my informant, at this portion of the narrative, "that I for one was scared, and no mistake about it. I was brought up on a part of New England where a belief in the supernatural prevails. I had heard that evil spirits appeared at times in the forms of beasts, and haunted the places where they had on earth committed their crimes, and we were off that coast where, for two hundred years, the desperadoes of every clime—pirates and buccaneers—had pursued, when in life, their horrid calling. As the blue light flickered, and the yells once more broke out, these tales of my early days might have me fancy myself in the presence of some phantom ship with its ghastly crew.

"But daylight soon came, the blue light went out, and we then saw that the wreck was a real one, and that a boat was towing astern, and when we pulled to it and hailed, voices from the cabin aft replied, and we rowed around and saw a man with his head and shoulders projecting out of the window.

"'I say, strangers, don't none of you offer to come aboard. Some of the critters got loose last night, and they are dangerous.' And dangerous enough they appeared to be, for at that moment they came to the taffrail, and looked down on us, several hyenas, whose eyes, sparkling with famine, glared most ferociously, and no wonder, they had had no food for nearly a week.

"The brig was in fact a complete menagerie which a speculative American was taking to California, visiting all the Southern American ports on the way. He had been blown out to sea by a hurricane, which at last carried away his masts, and he had been drifting about ever since, till his beasts were nearly starved. He had a miserable crew, half of them being his showmen, and he himself was his own captain, trusting to his mate to navigate for him. They had prepared the long boat for leaving, should no vessel fall in with them, but had made repeated abortive efforts to rig jury masts as well. In their last attempt the spar had fallen, and the heel of it smashed the cage containing the hyenas, and all hands had to make a speedy retreat to the after cabin, and keep below till daylight should enable them to shoot, or otherwise secure them. Our fire, by exciting the beasts, attracted their notice, and at first, they thought it was a burning ship. The light seen by the boat early in the night was made by burning some spirits of wine out of the cabin window, and they now prepared to repeat the signal, hoping to attract our attention, but this time, instead of hanging it out of the cabin window, they managed to open the hatchway and pushed it out on the deck, where the beasts were prowling about, restless with the hunger which tormented them.

"The crew stayed three days with us; we rigged them up jury-masts, and, what was of greater consequence, supplied the cabin with plenty of beef from the whale for his animals, and thus saved them from ruin, for the poor man had invested all he had in the menagerie. We heard afterwards he got safe to Callao, and I suppose is in California long before this."

Certificate of Dr. Hayes.

It is well known that the medicinal effect of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further oxidation, has been deemed impossible.

In the Peruvian Syrup this desirable point is attained by combination in a way before unknown, and this solution may replace all the proto-carbonates, citrates and tartrates of the Materia Medica.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to over-estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation it remained almost useless until Dr. Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without a solvent. This considered impossible by the scientific world. Is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals and its use recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1858, page 70.)

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER.

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color, hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Full directions accompany each bottle.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle. Prepared by Dr. H. Anders & Co., Physicians and Chemists, New York.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS.

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE REMEDY upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its controlling and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutritious blood, and nutritious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digestion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions giving tone to the animal juices which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and brings the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the broken-down frame and shattered constitution, which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility from whatever cause arising may be cured, strength in whatever manner it may have been wasted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthy invigorant. For indigestion and all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

As an invigorant and restorative, limited in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite and acts like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which the sex by nature are subject. It cheers and enlightens the depressed mental powers, as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.

From the army hospital—the bloody battle field—the mansion of the rich, and humble abode of the poor—from the office and the sacred desk—from the mountain top, distant valleys, and far off islands of the ocean—from every nook and corner of the civilized world—is pouring in the evidence of the astonishing effects of DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS. Thousands upon thousands of letters like the following may be seen at our office:

REEDSVILLE, Wis., Sept 16, 1864.

* * * I have been in the army hospital for fourteen months—speechless and nearly dead. At Alton, Ill., they gave me a bottle of Plantation Bitters. * * * Three bottles restored my speech and cured me.

EDWARD WOUNALL.

The following is from the manager of the Union Home School for the children of Volunteers.

HAVEMEYER MANSION, FIFTY SEVENTH STREET,
NEW YORK, August 2, 1863.

* Dr. DRAKE: Your wonderful Plantation Bitters have been given to some of our little children suffering from weakness and weak lungs with most happy effect. One little girl in particular, with pains in her head, loss of appetite, and daily wasting consumption, on whom all medical skill had been exhausted, has been entirely restored. We commence with but a teaspoonful of Bitters a day. Her appetite and strength rapidly increased, and she is now well. * * * Respectfully, MRS. O. M. DEVOE."

* * * I owe much to you for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

REV. W. H. WAGGONER, Madrid, N. Y."

H. B. KINGSLEY, Cleveland, O."

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the kidneys and urinary organs that has distressed me for years. It acts like a charm.

C. C. MOORE, 254 Broadway, N. Y.

etc. etc. etc. etc. etc.

The Plantation Bitters make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Wintergreen, Sassafras, Roots, Herbs, &c., all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix Rum.

S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try them.

They are recommended by the highest medical authorities and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure and harmless.

NOTICE.—Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters in bulk or by the gallon is a swindler and impostor. It is put up only in our patent log cabin bottle. Beware of bottles refilled with imitation deleterious stuff for which several persons are already in prison. See that every bottle has our private United States Stamp over the cork unmutilated and signature on steel plate side label.

MEDICAL WONDER

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step, his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom of an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active, and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor. The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.
